The Community Aboriginal Teacher Education Program was initiated by Seven Oaks School Division as a partnership between the University of Winnipeg and Winnipeg School Division. Indigenous people receive on-the-job training, work full time as Educational Assistants (EA) and attend University of Winnipeg to attain a combined B.Ed/B.A.

Educational Assistant Component

We are committed to growing educational leaders as much as we want to certify Indigenous teachers. To achieve this end, we provide:

- Opportunities to take an active role as leaders within their school communities supporting Indigenous ways of being, learning and doing.
- Actively support Seven Oaks School Division Indigenous Education Policy and Indigenous initiatives.
- Opportunity to attend professional development and networking meetings to bridge between division, provincial and national initiatives.
- Attend and/ or contribute to the annual Indigenous Education Conference in partnership with the Council for Indigenous Education in Manitoba (CIEM)
- Professional development designed specifically for CATEP students to stay abreast new resources, initiatives and changing trends.

We encourage and support CATEP students to naturalize the inclusion of culture and language, land-based, holistic, and experiential learning.

CATEP EA's work full-time from September to May at which time they are released to attend University full-time from May-August on an annual basis.

We are seeking potential applicants who are Cree and Ojibwe language speakers and/or are interested in learning an Indigenous language. As part of our language revitalization initiatives, our priority is to grow Indigenous language speakers in our schools.

University Academic Component

The academic portion runs 11 month of the year from September to August.
